

CALL FOR PRESENTATIONS
JASAL 2016 Annual Conference, Kobe, Japan
Saturday, December 10, 2016

The Japan Association for Self-Access Learning (JASAL) is very pleased to invite you to participate in the JASAL 2016 Annual Conference on Saturday, December 10, 2016 at Konan Women's University in Kobe, Japan. While we cannot yet confirm the exact times, we intend this one-day conference to run from approximately 10:00 to 16:30. There will also be a tour of e-space, self-access center at Konan Women's University.

The aim of the conference is to bring together practitioners, administrators, and students involved in the field of self-access learning across Japan to share our innovative practices, to learn from each other, and to inspire each other to expand this field in Japanese institutions.

This year we wish to broaden the participation at the JASAL Annual Conference by encouraging students to present, and to give all presenters the option to present in English or Japanese.

We welcome three general types of proposal submissions:

- Research-based presentations, in which there is reference to theoretical literature and/or collection and discussion of data
- 'My Share' presentations, which are less research-focused and emphasize the sharing of practical ideas
- Administrator presentations, which provide a platform for administrators concerned with the operations of SAC/LLSs

We are particularly looking for presentations in the following areas, although other relevant topics will also be considered:

- Managing and administrating Self-Access Centers(SAC)/Language Learning Spaces(LLS)
- Learning Spaces and SAC/LLS layout
- Language policy in SAC/LLS
- Materials and displays
- Integrating self-access with curriculum
- Learner involvement in SAC/LLS, Learning Community
- Learning advising/counseling/coaching
- Professional development for self-access learning
- Assessment of self-access learning
- Evaluating a SAC/LLS
- Learning program design
